Airport Proximity

Proximity to Airport indicates access to air travel service from a growth center. In case of closeness to Airport, time distance was extracted using network analysis. This study used the speed limit of different roads mentioned by the Roads and Highways Division (RHD) of Bangladesh.

Seaport Proximity

Proximity to seaport indicates access to maritime service from a growth center. In case of closeness to seaport, time distance was extracted using network analysis. This study used the speed limit of different roads mentioned by the Roads and Highways Division (RHD) of Bangladesh. Payra Seaport was not considered in this study.

Capital Proximity

Proximity to capital indicates access to the capital from a growth center. In case of closeness to the capital, time distance was extracted using network analysis. This study used the speed limit of different roads mentioned by the Roads and Highways Division (RHD) of Bangladesh.

Urban Population

Economic database is one of the main requirements to understand the city readiness. But, it is very difficult due to unavailability of data. Population counted as a proxy variable considering this constrain. Because where economy is strong population will be high there. Highest concentration of population is observed around the capital and its surrounding towns as well as divisional cities.

Comperative Infrastructural & Service Suitability Index

Infrastructural Suitability Index represents the existing urban infrastructure-services considering the current status of growth centers of Bangladesh. Rapid development activities were undertaken which were exponentially increased by the recent decades after the liberation of the country. But most of infrastructure development is concentrated to the urban areas. Bangladesh Government has a plan that Bangladesh will get the status of the developed country within 2041. So, this is the high time to insure the balanced and justified distribution of urban infrastructure- service.
