

China planning £2b 'intelligent super highway'

MAIL ONLINE

China has announced its plan to build an 'intelligent super highway' for self-driving vehicles.

The 100-mile expressway is expected to connect three major cities in China, which already has one of the largest highway networks in the world.

The project would cost 17.4 billion yuan (£2 billion), according to Chinese media.

SEE PAGE 10 COL 3